

EQUI Beta App Release Notes

We have just started registration for Test Flight of EQUI Beta app!

IMPORTANT: This is a beta release to demonstrate the principles of EQUI App functionality and possibilities. This beta app is in no way intended to be used as a final product and lacks features, which will be present in final release. We started this test flight so our potential investors and interested persons can have a better understanding of what we do and make sure that we are not just selling a whitepaper and a lot of work has already been done.

You can see the short promo video here: <https://youtu.be/kOiLZkMI02U>

You need to submit this form to get an invitation to Test Flight: <https://goo.gl/FKCecs>

This form is made for all those interested to try our beta app.

You will receive an invitation from Apple automatically as soon as External Test Flight is approved, which should happen within some days.

Apple's Test Flight app is free.

If you are not familiar with TestFlight, please see this link:

After you install EQUI Beta from Test Flight, you will be automatically logged in with a test user we have created.

In this way you will be easily able to just see the app with some tickets and subscriptions already existing in the profile.

If you want to play with app, you should log out and create your own user.

For test purposes, there is a sample ticket created in each category for India as a country. So you can basically subscribe to any category in India and the ticket will pop up on your feed.

What you can do in Beta:

- Create users
- Create tickets
- Leave comments on tickets
- Create subscriptions
- Delete subscriptions
- Modify your user profile
- Retrieve lost password

What you cannot:

- Chat, this functionality is disabled in beta
- Receive push notifications, this functionality is disabled in beta
- Delete tickets, we disabled ticket deletion so we collect a maximum amount of test tickets during Test Flight and measure system loads.
- Choose cities or subcategories, as this would make test flight less comfortable.
